Monica's "Say Next" column, presents two highly attractive messages to our audience: That it is possible to fulfill ourselves and being independent. And at the same time keep healthy independent relationships. To our reader, Emotional Independence is with no doubt, synonym of success and happiness".

As a successful entrepreneur and a recognized expert in Emotional Independence, Monica's unique perspective helps people show up fully in any situation. Her insights help audiences see the opportunity each NEXT MOMENT brings. Her tools and processes help attendees seize possibilities and move forward with clarity and confidence.

Monica's track record of unstoppable success speaks for itself. In 1995 she was hired by Gomsa (one of the most prominent Customs Broker Agencies in Mexico) to build a client base in a new territory. Without current contacts or support, she laid down the foundation and built a renowned client network which included most of the prominent companies in the region such as Bachoco, Flexi Group, Semillas Berentsen, Polímeros y Derivados, Maquila T, Zahonero Group, Trumpler Mexico, TFL Mexico, etc. Almost seven years later and following her dream of independence, she left the company and became an independent representative at a Network Marketing Company building an organization of 3,500 representatives within less than a year.

After having successfully built two businesses from scratch she learned that unfortunately most of us learn to be dependent. And that these dependencies keep us stuck in situations or people that distort how we see ourselves. Using her discoveries, Monica has created a provocative systematic approach that clears away internal barriers for Emotional Independence that spurs clarity and positive action.
